Geometry (from the Ancient Greek: γεωμετρία; geo-"earth", -metron "measurement") is, with arithmetic, one of the oldest branches of mathematics. It is concerned with properties of space that are related with distance, shape, size, and relative position of figures. A mathematician who works in the field of geometry is called a geometer.. Until the 19th century, geometry was almost ...

A Reuleaux triangle is a shape formed from the intersection of three circular disks, each having its center on the boundary of the other two. Its boundary is a curve of constant width, the simplest and best known such curve other than the circle itself. Constant width means that the separation of every two parallel supporting lines is the same, independent of their orientation.

Topology is the non-mechanical geometry of spaces. Geometrical figure in space is topology. Lewin tried to explain the topology of a person as structure of the person. Level of Aspiration: The level of future performance in a familiar task which as individual knowing his level of part performance in that task, explicitly undertakes to reach.
